ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

All Stomach Distress Quickly Ended with "Pape's Diapepsin"

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmles-ness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs.
It's millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undiges-ted food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

FILIPINOS CARRY ON THEIR CRUEL SPORT

If all accounts are correct, there is a great deal of chicken fighting going on in the various Filipino camps. We were told that at one of the plantation camps $250 changed hands on one fight. The cocks are armed with steel gaffs, and one who saw the defeated cock in the fight above alluded to, says that it was cut under its wings so that its intestines could be seen. We understand that there is a law against chicken-fighting and the penalty is a $20 fine and one month's imprisonment. We suggest that the police step lively after paydays on the plantations, and catch the offenders—Kohala Midget.

A LESSON FROM OUR ANCESTORS

In the good old fashioned days of our grandmothers they depended upon the roots and herbs of the field to relieve disease.

Years have passed by, but science has never been able to improve upon the medicinal effects of these same roots and herbs which are Nature's cure for disease.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that successful remedy for female ills, had its origin in this way and today tons of roots and herbs are consumed annually in making it.

Aunt Sarah's Pension Money

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

In the village of Howells, after Mrs.
James Griggs became a widow, she was always spoken of as Aunt Sarah.
Her husband was a carpenter, and in the last days of the war he enlisted and went to the front to be killed. It was years afterward that Aunt Sarah got her pension, and then it came in a lump sum of $600. She was fifty-five years old then and living with relatives.

There were two brothers, two brothers-in-law, three sisters and four or five uncles and aunts interested in that pension money. It came by the 2nd o'clock mail, and by 6 o'clock the news had buzzed all through the village and reached relatives living eleven miles away. That evening there was an assembly at the house of brother Moses.
The family had let the dish washing go and dressed up. Aunt Sarah in her calico best. She was a $600 woman now, and brother Moses had said to her:

"I'll take charge of the money and all you'll have to do the rest of your life is to eat peach preserves and sit with folded hands."

The other relatives, as fast as they approached, made similar offers, and there was hardly a man in the village who didn't offer to borrow the money and pay 10 per cent interest. Aunt Sarah certainly held the center of the stage. She had often been taunted with having no will of her own, but now it was found that her relatives had made a great big mistake. She had a will. She refused to let any one of them take charge of her finances.
She refused to lend a shilling. She refused to follow any advice about investing it. She proposed to paddle her own canoe. When she cashed the check she refused to bank the money, but carried the wad of greenbacks around in a pocket made for the purpose.

How was any relative to get his hands on that money? This kept several men and women awake nights and gave them shivers in the daytime.
It seemed that cajolery or battery was the only course. They had Aunt Sarah from home to home. She was fed on preserves and lodged in the spare room. She had an apron dress and a new bonnet. If she went to feed the hogs or wash the dishes she was chased back into the parlor and told to look at the photos in the family album. She was told that she was growing younger every hour, and she was provided with hair dye and a toothbrush, and after a couple of weeks hints would be thrown out that she had better hand over the money.

She was always ready to pass on to the next relative after that.

Things finally got around to Moses again. He had been thinking and trying to decide what his duty was. He had finally made up his mind. He didn't even tell his wife about it. He was not secretive as a rule, but in this case he felt that he could do his duty unaided. At midnight, when Aunt Sarah was soundly asleep in the best bed in the house and dreaming of the quince preserves she had eaten for supper, Moses left his own bed and the house and started to crawl into her open window. It was known to him that once the widow was asleep no thunderclap could awaken her. Under the window he deposited an old pair of shoes, and on the grass not far away he left an old hat. Suspicion must be cast upon a tramp, you see.

The loving brother had got most of his body into the room when Aunt Sarah bobbed out of bed and grabbed a chair and brought it down on the head of the intruder with such force as to break the legs and his head at the same time. The chair fell to the floor, and Moses fell to the ground.
There was an alarm. He was not a good liar and realized the fact, and so he simply explained that it was a case of sleepwalking. He had gone to bed worrying about the sister's money and in his sleep had tried to crawl into the window to see if it was safe.

After Moses had done his duty, or made a good try at it, the $600 widow accepted an invitation to pass a couple of weeks with a friend. She was a bit afraid that some of her other relatives might try the sleepwalking stunt.
Amid all the planning and talking no one had mentioned marriage. Such an idea was preposterous. Fifty-five years and over and no man in sight. They had said she was growing younger; that she almost had a girly walk.

One afternoon Aunt Sarah took a walk down the highway to a bridge over a creek. She was standing there when Deacon Griscom, sixty years old, came along. He looked at her and halted and asked:

"Mebbe you are a widdier woman?"

"I am."

"And I'm a widdier man. Want to get married?"

"Why—why—I hadn't thought!"

"Neither had I, but I'm thinking now. Stopping up at Perkins?"

"Yes."

"Let's go and talk. I'm kinder lonesome, and I kinder like the looks of you."

They had their talk, and when Aunt Sarah asked advice of Mrs. Perkins she was answered:

"Say, it will be jest too cute!"

Two days later Moses called the relatives together to say:

"Yes, it's true that Sarah has went and got married, and doggone my cats if the lawyers don't say we can't do a durned thing about it."
